Cooking your own food can be very useful if you are trying to lose weight. Many people buy processed foods because it is quicker and simpler than cooking and baking. However, unless you are a careful label reader, it can be difficult to know exactly what you are putting in your body. Portion sizes are bigger now than ever before. Cooking allows you to control what you put into your food and hence what goes into your body. Many cookbooks have calories listed near the recipe, so you can monitor your intake.

Pack your lunch for work or school. Do not give in to the temptation to pick something up from the fast food joint down the street or your school's cafeteria. Instead, pack your own lunch. This way you can control your portions. You can also be sure that what you are eating is healthy for you.

Walk your way to weight loss. One of the most effective ways of losing weight is by walking. It is convenient, doesn't cost anything, and you can do it with a friend. Just be sure to have a good pair of walking shoes. Remember that whether you walk or run a certain distance, you will burn about the same amount of calories, and walking is a lot more relaxed! Start slowly and try to build it up so that you can walk comfortably for an hour using a moderate pace.

If you are trying to lose weight, avoid being hungry. Eat regular meals and snacks throughout the day. Always try to make sure the snacks that you choose are healthy ones. Try to eat items that are high in protein, such as yogurt and beans. Keeping protein a major part of your diet can help you feel fuller for longer periods.

If you are a fan of fruit flavored sweetened oatmeal that can add on a lot of unnecessary sugars. In order to achieve the exact same effect you can take some plain oatmeal and add unsweetened frozen fruit and artificial sweetener. It will satisfy your craving and it is nearly fat free.

If you already go to a gym to work out, look into the classes that they offer. Many of them are free, and others may have a free trial period to check them out and see if they are for you. Losing weight with other people is the best way to stay consistent.

Eat a rainbow of vegetables throughout the week to make sure you're getting all the vitamins and minerals you need from them. Each color represents different nutrients, and it also helps you keep your meals different and interesting. Losing weight is easy when you make it fun, so try all different vegetables to see what you love!

Ice cream is one of the most tempting foods that you can eat, which you will need to avoid if you are trying to lose weight. Instead, try low fat ice cream or low fat yogurt if you are trying to satisfy your cravings while sticking to your weight loss program.
